We understand that in these industries time and space are at an ever increasing premium and so we offer our clients a complete package service that minimises any possible disruption to their business. Steel partitions are an excellent tool in redesigning your existing space and can provide additional security to businesses dealing with high risk stock. Our range offers single and double skin steel partitions and a host of other options including machine cages, anti collapse mesh screens and mesh partitioning and security cages.

Single skin partitioning systems are ideal for enclosing work area within factories and warehouses without the added cost of a double skin system. Panels incorporate various configurations of steel, mesh and glazing and can be multi-tiered to improve security and keep working areas dust-free. Panels can also be cut to accommodate an existing structure to provide an aesthetic finish.
